Power has multiple sources and is exercised in many ways. It plays a role in shaping patterns of social relationships and human interactions in almost every sphere of our lives. Sometimes we can see power at work in very direct and obvious ways—landlords and bosses have power that we know too well.

In social science and politics, power is the capacity of an individual to influence the actions, beliefs, or conduct (behaviour) of others. The term "authority" is often used for power that is perceived as legitimate by the social structure. Power can be seen as evil or unjust. However, power can also be seen as good and as something
